ATTORNEY

Nick is an attorney who serves clients, families and businesses throughout Michigan. He is chair of Smith Haughey's Trusts and Estates Group and the firm's Agricultural and Agribusiness Industry Team. His practice focuses on business, tax and estate planning to help his clients protect, grow and smoothly transition their wealth and businesses to future generations.

For business clients, Nick leans on his extensive business leadership training and experience to counsel on the specialized legal, business and emotional issues of succession, exit and continuity planning to help business owners effectively transition out of their businesses. He resolves real property issues; drafts corporate documents such as buy-sell agreements, contracts, leases, and other legal documents; and advises on entity formation. His clients include startups, small to mid-size businesses, family-owned businesses, farms, and agribusinesses.

Nick helps individuals, couples, and families plan for end of life decisions; pass wealth to younger generations; and establish charitable giving. He drafts estate plans that include wills, trusts, guardianships, durable powers of attorney, healthcare powers of attorney and patient advocate designations, special needs trusts, and other related documents such as charitable trusts, grantor retained trusts, intentionally defective trusts and qualified trusts. In addition, Nick has successfully tried and settled cases for dozens of clients in probate court, including trust disputes and trust reformation, guardianships, conservatorships and contested estate proceedings.

While earning his law degree, Nick also earned a Master's of Business Administration through a joint degree program between Michigan State University College of Law and Grand Valley State University. He has studied in Tokyo, Japan, and Innsbruck, Austria. Nick has served as an adjunct professor at Grand Valley State University, where he has taught entrepreneurship classes on business plan development, management and marketing, as well as finance and accounting. Nick is a volunteer instructor and advisor for Hope College's Center for Faithful Leadership and Hope's Entrepreneurship Initiative where he has taught Entrepreneurial Leadership and encourages students to practice business as mission.
